While King advocated for nonviolent protest, Malcolm X offered a more confrontational and militant perspective. His electrifying speeches and his belief in Black self-defense resonated with many African Americans who felt that the pace of change was too slow.

The March on Washington: A Watershed Moment

In August 1963, the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom drew over 200,000 people to the nation's capital. Martin Luther King Jr.'s iconic "I Have a Dream" speech, delivered from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial, captivated the world and became a defining moment in the fight for civil rights.
